

Southern Highlands Christian School

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Andrew Graham and his company 'Event Project Management' have been excellent in all manner of project management services. Our School has been able to rely on Event in every aspect of our current project. They have been reliable and conscientious in the execution of all that is required. The construction represents the first time we have ventured away from self-management and our experience is such that we will not return to that way of operating. Professional expertise in the modern era is essential.

Event Project Management bring the highest level of ethical and professional skills to bear on their appointment as the representative of our best interests. Where we may have been slow to act or to pick up on any concerns with construction or even to be unaware of what was necessary, we always found that Event had already seen what was happening and attended to matters. Resolutions were swift and efficient as Event dealt with the relevant companies contracted to the project. Clear and unambiguous pathways were always set in place.

The resultant current and long-term cost savings for our school have made our decision to appoint Event a wise one. The quality assurance we have in the end-product is very high thanks to the work done by them.

Event Project Management is a hard working and diligent team. They are good people to work with. They work as if they are full-time members of our school community. I heartily commend Event to you and would be happy to field questions regarding their performance.
